Senate Committee Endorses Black for Court Justice

Swift Action Is Taken in Spite of Vermont Objection

Roosevelt Says Cummings Declares Nomination Is Legal

UP TO THE SENATE

Alabamian's Name to Be Recommended Favorably on Floor

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The senate judiciary subcommittee swiftly approved Friday the nomination of Senator Black, Alabama Democrat, to the United States Supreme Court.

It acted only a few minutes after President Roosevelt told his press conference that Attorney General Cummings had informed him it was perfectly legal and constitutional to appoint Black to the supreme court.

The judiciary subcommittee of six members voted to report Black's nomination favorably, after rejecting a move by Senator Austin, Vermont Republican, to hold up action pending a study of the legal questions involved. Austin questioned Black's eligibility under the recent congressional act providing for the retirement of supreme court justices at full pay.

He suggested it might make any member of congress ineligible either on the basis of creating a new office or of increasing the emoluments of office.

First Photographs of Actual Warfare on Tientsin Front

When Japanese planes swarmed down on Tientsin to avenge an alleged "insult," residents and soldiers in the North China city were introduced to war in all its flaming, grim reality. Aerial bombs shattered the headquarters of the Public Peace, and flames, above, broke out to complete the destruction. The bombing came after Japan charged Chinese troops with firing on a Japanese force on the front line of the undeclared war.

Rifles held ready for instant action, Japanese conquerors of Tientsin peer over the sandbags of their street barricade for signs of the expected counter-attack or sniping from Chinese troops. This scene is near the German headquarters where close fighting took place as Japan made Tientsin its first major conquest in the North China campaign.

Widening out to include a vast area of China, the Sino-Japanese conflict neared a declaration of war as China massed forces in the north, and Nippon's military machine rolled onward to encompass more territory. Interest centered in Shanghai following the slaying of two Japanese, Japanese nationals were evacuated from Hankow. In the north fighting centered at Nankou, over a strategic pass at the Great Wall. Map, above shows main trouble centers; at right area affected.

Battle Being Waged on Border of International Settlement

SHANGHAI, China.—(AP)—Shellfire and flames left this frightened city of 3½ million seemingly irretrievably doomed Saturday (Oriental time) to the principal role of 1937's bloody chapter of Sino-Japanese tragedy.

Hostilities between Japan's blue-jackets and China's army regulars flared from hanghai proper all along the 10-mile way to the Woodsong forts. The casualties, although yet indefinite, were believed low.

U. S. Fleet to Shanghai

SHANGHAI, China.—(AP)—Big guns of the Chinese and Japanese roared in an artillery duel along the northern fringe of siege-like Shanghai Friday, setting fire to a score of buildings in the Chinese Kiangwan and Chapel areas.

A strong wind threatened a holocaust similar to that of 1932, when flames destroyed most of the houses in the densely-populated Chapel, which borders the International Settlement, and Kiangwan village to the north.

With the first bark of machine-gun fire, the United States Asiatic fleet was ordered into action to protect the 4,000 American residents here.

M'Corkle Recalls History Printing

First New World Printing Press Brought to Mexico City

The first printing press was set up in the New World not in the United States but in Mexico City, Ed McCorkle recalled in a speech before Hope Rotary club Friday noon at Hotel Barlow.

Mr. McCorkle sketched the history of printing from its reputed invention by the Chinese, to Gutenberg's discovery of movable type—which was the actual birth of the modern art.

The speaker noted the changing times in the trade. When he was a boy Mr. McCorkle served an apprenticeship of six years, which later was reduced to four years—and now the term is uncertain, and there is an increasing problem in the matter of good apprentices, he said.

Guests of the club Friday were: L. Birdsong, mayor of Longview, Texas; and Rich W. Lewis of Silom Springs, Ark.

Spanish Ship Sunk by Italians, Claim

Government Vessel Reported Fired on by Italian Destroyer

TUNIS, Tunisia.—(AP)—Capt. Felix Gary of the Spanish government tanker Campeador reported to French officials Thursday that his vessel was torpedoed and sunk by the Italian destroyer Saetta.

Twelve members of the tanker's crew were lost, five of them dying when the first torpedo hit the engine room. Two other torpedoes struck the vessel.

The captain said the attack took place at 8 p. m. Wednesday night off Kolibia, 50 miles northeast of here, with the vessel he identified as the Saetta flying "a war flag." He said a second Italian destroyer which was not identified was present during the attack.

Rescued sailors of the tanker's 40-man crew said earlier a submarine made the attack.

The captain reported that seven minutes after the first torpedo struck, two other missiles were fired into the Campeador's center, causing her to catch fire. The vessel, loaded with 9,500 tons of benzine, sank soon afterward.

Captain Gary reported from a town on the eastern coast of Tunis. He said that all the crew except 12 had gained the shore and were en route to Tunis where the Spanish government consulate will investigate.

Anti-Lynch Bill Is Put Off Again

Threatened Filibuster by Southerners Is Averted

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Administration leaders ended the struggle over the anti-lynching bill Thursday by giving the measure preferred status for next session. Senators Wagner (Dem., N. Y.) and Van Nuys (Dem., Ind.) agreed to withdraw their motion for immediate consideration.

Majority Leader Barkley (Dem., Ky.), faced with a filibuster by Southern senators which was upsetting all legislative plans, offered the motion to give the bill right-of-way next year. He said this meant the measure would be passed early in the next session. He said there were 70 votes for it in the senate.

Several Southern senators objected to Barkley's motion. Senator Connally (Dem., Tex.) complained against binding the next session with any "signed in the blood promises."

"This legislation is a fraud on its face," he said, declaring it was designed to give to a special group rights and privileges denied to others.

Accusing supporters of merely seeking votes, he shouted:

"I'd rather go back home and practice law in justice of the peace court than sacrifice my principles for a few votes."

Connally's argument that the bill is unconstitutional was supported by Senator Borah (Rep., Ida.) who said there is nothing in the Constitution giving the federal government the right to go into a state and establish a civil liability for damages between citizens.

Given Terms from 28 to 77 Years for "Snatch" in 1933

BINGHAMTON, N. Y.—(AP)—Two confessed participants in the 1933 kidnapping of John J. O'Connell, Jr., were sentenced to prison terms of three years and 49 months, respectively, Friday, in comparison with sentences ranging from 28 to 77 years imposed on eight other men convicted of the crime.

The penalties were imposed on Frank Fischer, 33, and Thomas Burke, 39, guards of O'Connell in the Hoboken (N. J.) hideout where he was held 23 days.

The defendants, wearing handcuffs, pleaded at Federal Judge Bryant, federal district judge, pronounced sentence. They were convicted by a jury which listened to almost 11 weeks of testimony and required less than three hours of deliberation to convict.

Sentences were imposed by Judge Bryant at follows:

John Oley, 36, Percy Geary, 34, both of Albany; Thomas Dugan, 35, John McGone, 34, Charles Harrigan, 37, and Edward D. White of Louisiana was associate justice from 1892 to 1902.

Senate Group in Compromise Plan With Roosevelt

To Approve Immediate Loans If Control Is Pledged

BILL IS TO FOLLOW

Resolution Will Commit Congress to Action in 1938

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—A senate delegation reported after a White House conference Friday that President Roosevelt had agreed to make immediate federal loans on cotton to farmers who pledged to comply with a surplus control program to be enacted at the next session.

Senator Bilbo, Mississippi Democrat, said a resolution putting congress on record to pass surplus control legislation early in 1938 would be taken up in the senate later Friday.

He said the president had agreed to make loans which in effect would peg the price at 12 cents per pound.

Force Wage-Hour Bill
The rules committee Friday recommended a resolution which would make it possible for the Democratic leadership to bring the administration's wage and hour bill before the house by suspending parliamentary rules, provided a two-thirds vote could be obtained.

There was no indication that this drastic procedure would be employed immediately.

Speaker Bankhead said he had "no intention" of recognizing any member to call up the measure under rules suspension Monday.

"The measure is of such importance it should have free and open discussion," he said.

Crop Loan Compromise

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Members of the senate Agriculture Committee expressed confidence Thursday night that President Roosevelt would approve crop loans if congress agreed to take up crop control legislation in the first week of the next session. This arrangement would end the controversy between Mr. Roosevelt and farm blocs in both houses demanding crop loans, thus easing the way to adjournment.

At Next Session

The agriculture committee, after conferring in executive session with Secretary Wallace, approved a concurrent resolution Thursday which would bind both houses to make crop control legislation the first order of business next session. Chairman Smith (Dem., S. C.) said Wallace told the committee that he believed this pledge would satisfy the president, but Wallace met with the committee for two and a half hours, declined comment. Later he went to the White House.

The committee amended the resolution to read "the next session" instead of the 1938 session as Senator Bilbo (Dem., Miss.) had written it. Committee members said this was done to include the possibility of a special session.

Secretary Wallace, asked by newsmen if he thought there should be a special session, answered: "It would be a fine thing for the farmer."

Crop Subsidy Proposals

After disposing of the Bilbo resolution, the committee went into session Thursday night to consider crop subsidy plans before it. These include a committee bill providing for loans on the basis of 10 cents a pound for cotton, 70 cents a bushel for wheat, 50 cents a bushel for corn, eight cents a pound for tobacco and 65 cents a bushel for rice. Other commodities could be included on such a basis as the Commodity Corporation prescribed. Laws for payments on 1937 crops for farmers who complied with whatever federal farm program may be enacted in the future.

Parity price is described in the bill as that which the Bureau of Agricultural Economics may determine is necessary to give the commodity the same purchasing power it had in the 1909-1914 period.

Also before the committee were bills by Senator Bilbo for a 12-cent cotton loan and by Senator Connally (Dem., Tex.) for a direct 2½ cents a pound subsidy for cotton.

Funds for the payments under the Connally bill would be taken from the 30 per cent of tariff receipts set aside in the 1935 agricultural adjustment act for agricultural purposes.

Wallace was reported to have described this to the committee as the "least objectionable" of the cotton plans, but to have estimated it would cost $190,000,000 a year.

Homes

As long as there are homes to which men turn
At close of day;
So long as there are homes where children are—
Where women stay;
If love and loyalty and faith be found
Across those hills,
A stricken nation can recover
From those hills.
So long as there are homes where lamps are lit
And prayers are said,
Although a people falter through the dark
And nation's grope;
With God himself back of those little homes
We have some hope.—Selected.

An angel paused in its onward flight
With a seed of Love, Truth and Light,
And cried, "Oh, where can this seed be sown
That it will be most fruitful when grown?"
The Savior heard and said, as he smiled,
"Oh, plant it for me in the heart of a child."—Selected.

Morse Code Helps

TOLEDO, Ohio.—(AP)—Police Judge Homer A. Ramey learned the Morse Code in his youth before he became familiar with the Ohio criminal code as attorney and judge. The defendant immediately translated the tapings, and won dismissal. Judge Ramey decided he really was a telegrapher and was not drunk.

God's Laws For a Nation
Text: Exodus 20:1-7

This lesson brings before us the great moral code that we call the Ten Commandments. In what sense does God give laws to a nation? We must remember that in the conception and language of these Old Testament writers, much is attributed to God that we would today attribute to human agency. When water came from the rock in the wilderness, God gave the water. When quails appeared in abundance, God sent the quails.

As we have suggested, we might well follow on this Hebrew thought and Hebrew language, and realize that attributing everything to human agency ignores those great resources which human nature utilizes and upon which the life of mankind depends.

So, though we might say today that our laws come from the Constitution and from our government, it is well to remember that human law is subject to higher standards, and that the law of a nation in a very real sense comes from God. If our laws are not tested by divine ideas and divine standards, we may be sure that there will be something faulty in our laws and a corresponding weakness in our institutions.

Are these commandments given to ancient Israel binding upon the Christian conscience?

That is a question that is often asked today, and it is a very important question; for the modern world certainly is breaking some of these commandments on an extensive scale, and the breaking of them is often upheld by the teachers and leaders of religion whom we would most expect to uphold the commandments.

Take the command, for instance, "Thou shalt not kill." Think of the exceptions that we so readily set alongside that commandment. We are told that it is all right to kill in self-defense, that it is all right to kill at the behest of the state, and that it is all right for the state to kill the criminal who has disobeyed its laws.

As a matter of fact, the very codes of which these commandments were a part seemed to justify killing; and a man might be stoned to death; with the approval of the law under certain circumstances.

Here again is the commandment to observe the Sabbath. Can we look at our modern American Sunday without realizing that it is a command observed chiefly in the breach?

For masses of people today there is no sacredness or obligation connected with the Sabbath. It is for many of them a day of work or pleasure, and not a day of rest or a day of remembrance of God in worship.

Whatever we say in theory, in practice we go very largely upon the idea that these ten commandments were ancient laws for the Jews that are not binding upon us today. We would not like to say just that in words, but in our actions, it is what we say.

These ten commandments, if we look into them very closely, are in the nature of basic principles that have to do with the life and welfare of mankind.

Jesus said to those who observed the Sabbath in a merely mechanical way that the Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath. This principle would apply to all these commandments. There is a higher commandment of love to God and love, man to man, in the spirit of which alone these commands can be fulfilled. Jesus made the great commandments of his religion positive and not negative. He did not stress the things that one should not do, but he put the great emphasis upon the things that everybody could do and ought to do.

We ought to consider the commandments in the light of this larger command of love. Nevertheless, when we examine them, we find that the commandments assert the principles that in some way must be at the heart and life of every people, if there is to be justice, man with man, and a true life in society.

"De-Kills" Visiting Scot

LONDON.—(P)—More than 20,000,000 people rode London's underground railways during coronation week—and the best story is of the jaunty Highlander who lost his kilt.

The Highlander rode an escalator while sitting on one of the steps. There was a loud ripping noise. The kilt went up while the Scot continued down.

It was all very embarrassing until someone loaned the Scot a coat, instead of a crowd before and behind made it impossible to retrieve the kilt.

STORIES IN STAMPS

THREE-DESTROYED CAPITAL

TURBULENT history is that of the capital city of the Central American republic, Guatemala; turbulent because three times it has fallen before the onslaughts of ruthless natural forces.

First Spanish capital of the country was Ciudad Vieja. It was destroyed by "Aguia," the mountain of vomiting water, one of Guatemala's greatest volcanoes. Thundering down upon the quiet city at its feet, "Aguia" belched forth a deluge of water which completely wrecked the capital. This was in 1541.

Guatemala, on its present site, was founded following an earthquake which in 1773 destroyed the older capital. The government was formally transferred to this location in 1779. Laid out at an altitude of 4877 feet above the sea on a virtually isolated tableland, the city, in the opinion of its founders, would be safe from earthquakes.

This hope was blasted, however, one year after founding when a heavy tremor shook the area, and in 1917-18 the city was virtually razed by a series of earthquakes. The site was not abandoned, however, and the present Guatemala has risen on the same streets and on the same building lots as before. The city is often pictured on Guatemalan stamps. The issue here, current, shows a principal street.

BARBS

Research indicates sod homes may make a comeback on the prairies, which seems to assure a greater measure of harmony for the next grass roots convention.

As a suggestion to clubs formed by women who have served on juries, they might adopt this as a motto: "Try, try again."

The Trailer Training for the Young committee will next take up the serious difficulties involved in sending bad boys upstairs to bed without supper.

And another mighty issue has been decided with a herpetologist's flat statement that copper-colored snakes do not smell like cucumbers.

The really modern householder is the one who asked for a photo finish when he had his house painted.

Dionne Quins' Show Is Big Attraction

More Than 500,000 Visitors Last Summer—Crowds Continue

A curious world looks on in amazement as the Dionne Quintuplets continue to hold their place in the spotlight. The first year the famous babies rated first page news because of their valiant struggle for life. The second year it was interesting to watch them develop individual characteristics. And today they are still the center of world-wide interest with statisticians wondering if 1937 visitors will break last year's record attendance.

It is said that approximately 375,000 persons witnessed the world's greatest show at Callendar, Ontario, the summer of 1935, and that last summer there were more than 500,000 visitors. During one month alone, July, 1936, there were reported 141,342 sight-seers, arriving in 30,212 automobiles and 67 buses. It is estimated that of these 70 per cent came from the United States. Weather permitting, the famous five put on a show twice a day throughout the spring, summer and autumn, and sometimes in the winter. A diffused glass screen keeps the visitors unseen by the Quins, and at a distance.

All of the visitors are amazed at the amount of vitality shown by the Quins. One reason for their amazing vitality is their diet. For example, the cereal chosen for the Dionne Quins is Quaker Oats, rich in Vitamin B. And Vitamin B is important in combating those childhood dangers, constipation, nervousness, and poor appetite when they are due to lack of that vitamin. And, too, Quaker Oats with milk is a fine source of body-building minerals, muscle-building protein and food-energy.

So the most famous babies in the world who thrive on Quaker Oats are splendid examples of what modern science and proper diet can accomplish in child-raising.

Molasses Pudding Hits Happy Medium in Desserts
Many a mother finds the question of desserts quite a problem. Junior wants nothing but ice-cream and Dad likes his home-baked pies. But here's one happy medium dessert that will satisfy both because it has a "pie a la mode" taste. It's Oatmeal Molasses Pudding.

You'll need the following ingredients in making Oatmeal Molasses Pudding.

1½ cups cooked Quaker Oats, 1½ cups scalded milk, 1 cup molasses, 2 eggs, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon allspice, 1 cup chopped raisins, dates or figs.

Mix cooked Quaker Oats with the milk, freeing from all lumps. Add beaten eggs, molasses, spices and raisins. Pour into greased baking dish and bake in slow oven—300 degrees—until firm. (About 40 minutes.) Serve hot, plain or with cream.

Fruit and Vegetables Best Reward for Ham Actor

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

Ham prices have leaped to the moon. But we can do something about it. Use a little less ham and a little more of cheaper foods together. The result—ham on the menu and still some money in the bank.

Ham and Corn Pudding
(4 to 6 servings)
Two cups creamy corn, ½ cup whole milk, ¼ cup chopped green pepper, 1 cup chopped cooked ham, salt and pepper to taste, 2 eggs.
Mix corn, ham, peppers together. Beat eggs until light, add milk and

From Waco, Texas

Editor The Star: I have been in Waco as a student in Baylor University for the past three and a half years. During this time when I have been quizzed as to the location of my home I have proudly disclosed the fact that I was a native of Hope, Arkansas—"The Home of the World's Largest Watermelons."

Well, the word Arkansas carries the connotation of barefoot, towseled hair, moonshiners, and all the other characteristics commonly accredited to that state called a hill-billy. In addition to this uncomplimentary opinion that has arisen regarding the State of Arkansas, there are many people who

A comparatively small slice of ham goes a lot farther when broiled along with slices of pineapple dusted with brown sugar, butter-packed prunes and sugared and buttered slices of sweet potatoes. These grills make hand-some and delicious dinners. They may look like the work of your favorite restaurant chef, but they require no more than the broiler of your own kitchen stove and a little intelligent marketing.

Tall Cooking for Tall Corn

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Service Staff Writer

If you are wondering why your corn on the cob hasn't been up to snuff, try these methods of preparing it. Experts insist that there are just two ways to boil corn.

First Method:
Plunge corn into boiling water. The water will stop boiling. Bring it back to boil, then reduce heat so that water merely simmers. Leave corn in simmering water for from 10 to 15 minutes. Local corn will require only 10 minutes; corn shipped needs 15 minutes.

Second Method:
Boil corn in husks. Remove all silk from husks and outer leaves. Still wrapped in its own green leaves, plunge corn into boiling water. Cook as above, only give local corn 15 minutes and distant corn 20 minutes. Add a little sugar to water if extra sweetness is wanted.

Sweet corn combines amiably with green peppers. Try this for proof. Serve it with broiled steak.

Green Peppers and Fresh Corn
(4 to 6 servings)
One tablespoon butter, 1 green pepper sliced thin, 2 cups fresh corn, cooked and sliced from cob, ½ cup heavy cream, salt and pepper, and dash of paprika.

Melt butter in frying pan. Add green pepper. Sauté in butter 3 minutes. Add corn, sauté 1 minute then turn in cream. Season, simmer gently for 5 minutes and serve piping hot.

Corn fritters are necessary in houses of hungry men.

Corn Fritters
(4 to 6 servings)
Two eggs, 1 cup cooked corn, cut from cob and mashed, ½ tablespoons flour, ¼ teaspoon baking powder, 1½ teaspoon nutmeg, 2 tablespoons butter for frying.

Beat eggs well. Add mashed fresh corn. Sift flour, baking powder and nutmeg together. Add egg and corn mixture. Combine well. In frying pan melt 2 tablespoons butter. When very hot, drop in fritter batter by tablespoons. When brown on one side, turn and brown on other. Serve in small stacks with either a sweet syrup or a light meat sauce.

Combine the two and strike a happy medium.

Ham and Veal Pie
(4 to 6 servings)

One and one-half pounds veal (weighed without bone), ½ pound ham 2 large onions, ¼ clove garlic, 1 green pepper, 2 large raw potatoes, cubed, 1 large carrot, cubed, 1 cup stale bread crumbs, mustard, salt and pepper, ¼ teaspoon ground cloves.

Place veal in saucepan, cover with water, add spices and simmer until tender. Fry ham, then using ham drippings, fry chopped pepper and onion, garlic. Strain veal, cut meat into large squares. Cut ham into equally large squares. Combine broth, veal and ham and add all other ingredients. Cover and simmer 1½ hours. Turn into baking dish and cover with pie pastry. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) for about 20 minutes.

Ham and Fruit Oven Grill
(4 servings)

Four orange slices, ½ inch thick, 4 green-tipped bananas, peeled, 4 tomato halves, 4 individual pieces ham steak.

Place on greased oven broiler rack. Brush bananas with melted butter. Salt bananas and tomatoes. Broil for about 10 to 20 minutes with rack 4 inches under moderate high flame. Turn once. Serve on hot platter. Season with salt and pepper. Garnish with parsley, stuffed olives and lemon quarters.

Modern Menus

For hot nights, a cold buffet makes a hospitable and welcome form of entertainment. Especially when the combine to create the impression of spacious and interesting living. Martha Logan, nationally known home economist, has a few words on the subject.

"Try this—against a setting of brilliant French provincial pottery in deep royal blue on a white pine table, spread cold meats which come ready to serve. In a fish-shaped earthenware platter, place slices of luncheon loaf with pistachio nuts (a new trio loaf), a three-toned Neapolitan loaf of beef, pork and chicken, a cheese-meat (cheese and ham) loaf, or a cheese and sausage loaf. Include also beef tongue and ham bologna, and garnish all this with little strings of cocktail frankfurters."

Miss Logan is still hungry, it would seem. "In a small matching meat platter, place an artichoke, and from a geometric pattern with slices of cold meat wrapped around crisp celery. Also have olives, radishes and

In Tangled N. Y. Mayoralty Race

"I ask no quarter," declared former Supreme Court Justice Jeremiah T. Mahoney, as the above picture was taken immediately after he had announced his candidacy for mayor of New York under the New Deal Democratic banner. Mahoney's prediction that Senator Royal S. other garnishes." There should be potato salad with this meal, iced tea and hot coffee and plenty of rolls and butter.

Potato Salad

(According to Irma S. Rombauer, in "Joy of Cooking")
Boil potatoes in their jackets until tender. Chill for several hours, then peel. Marinate well with soup stock, chop or slice fine and add hard cooked eggs, onions, olives, celery, pickles, cucumbers. Add some capers and season on the salad with salt, paprika and few grains of cayenne pepper. After an hour or more, add boiled salad dressing or mayonnaise. Make the salad very moist, as it will absorb a great deal of liquid. It may be made in advance; in fact, it seems to taste better

Air Conditioning Tests New House

"Winter" and "Summer" Produced to Test House Insulation

CHAMPAIGN-URBANA, Ill.—(AP)—University of Illinois research engineers are going into the weather-making business on a large scale to determine how the householder can protect himself most economically from temperatures ranging from five degrees below zero to 100 degrees above.

They are building a typical residence room 15 by 18 feet and eight and one-half feet high in an enclosure insulated with cork walls six and eight inches thick.

The room has three clapboard outside walls with two outside doors and four outside windows exposed to the controlled temperature in the insulated chamber.

The other chamber has large cooling coils to create sub-zero temperatures and three special electric fans to blow a wintry north wind. If summer weather is wanted, the fans and steam coils produce it.

Daughter Willed Marconi Wealth

are skeptical as to the veracity of any statement from any son of Arkansas. (Thanks to Bob Burns and his kind who do so much to further the fallacious belief that all of Arkansas is backward.) Therefore I haven't found many souls who believe me when I seek to propound the bigness of Hempstead County Watermelons. This can be overlooked in its individual cases, but recently in the studios Radio Station WACO where I am engaged as staff announcer I found occasion on a poundday program to expound on Hope and the big watermelons. There were some listeners who didn't agree and forthwith told me so.

Now I get to the reason for this writing. As one who is proud of Hope and its progressiveness I believe that its gift from Nature should be better publicized. The revival of the Annual Festival would do much toward this, and also bring from the environs some much needed business. I fully realize that you and your paper have done much to publicize this product but at the same time all you do comes to naught if there isn't a group of civic-minded citizens organized into a well functioning Chamber of Commerce. The last time I was home there was none.

Here's to the day when, wherever I am I shall be told about Hope, Arkansas and its giant watermelons.

"Chore Chart" Is Set for Triplets

Mother Devises It to Tell Her Three Children Apart

LORAIN, Ohio.—(AP)—Being a triplet might be considered fun by some folks, but it's just a bore to Joy, Jean and Janet Mills, 11-year-old daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Mills.

"Too many people ask you your name too many times," says Joy.

The mother of the blonde, blue-eyed girls says she, too, has had some trouble with their similarity.

"I tell one of them to do something and forget which one I told," Mrs. Mills says. "So I've arranged a 'chore chart' to keep track of them."

The thing that irritates the children most, however, is the common greeting of schoolmates: "Hey, Trip."

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich.—(AP)—Burglars who broke into the plant of a Grand Rapids Cookie Machine company got only a tummy ache for their efforts.

Detectives discovered the burglars had stolen a quantity of cookies which recently had been treated with varnish to make them suitable for display purposes.

ALLIANCE, Neb.—(AP)—Patrolman L. E. Pilkington noticed a ladder leaning against a theater building and scented a robbery. He removed the ladder, waiting patiently in the belief he had trapped burglars on the roof.

Next day, J. E. Hughes, theater manager, reported the theft of a ladder which he said had been leaning against his building more than two years.

As Court Freed 'Duce's Friend'

Ordered to pay damages of four cents and a fine of $3.75, Mme. Madeleine Fontages, French actress, writer, and friend of Mussolini, is shown above as the court suspended a one-year prison sentence of the close of her trial for the shooting of Count Charles Pinetou de Chambrun, former French ambassador to Rome. Her trial threatened to rock European diplomatic circles, for Mme. Fontages had told police she shot the ambassador because he shattered "unforgettable hours of love" with Il Duce.

Cargile Denies He Let Mauldin Down

"Tootsie" Tells Newspaper He Wasn't Scheduled to Fight Thursday

Nolan (Tootsie) Cargile, local welterweight fighter, denied Friday that he took a "run-out-powder" in failing to show up at the South Walnut street all-fight program Thursday night.

Cargile previously had been billed to appear in the main event against James Coombs of Nashville on information given to The Star by Promoter Bert Mauldin.

"I was not scheduled to fight—and any time I tell Mauldin that I will fight I'll be there," Cargile declared. "I talked with him early this week and at that time I told him I had been sick and didn't care to fight Thursday night. I believe Mauldin was unfair to me when he announced from the ringside something about a run-out-powder."

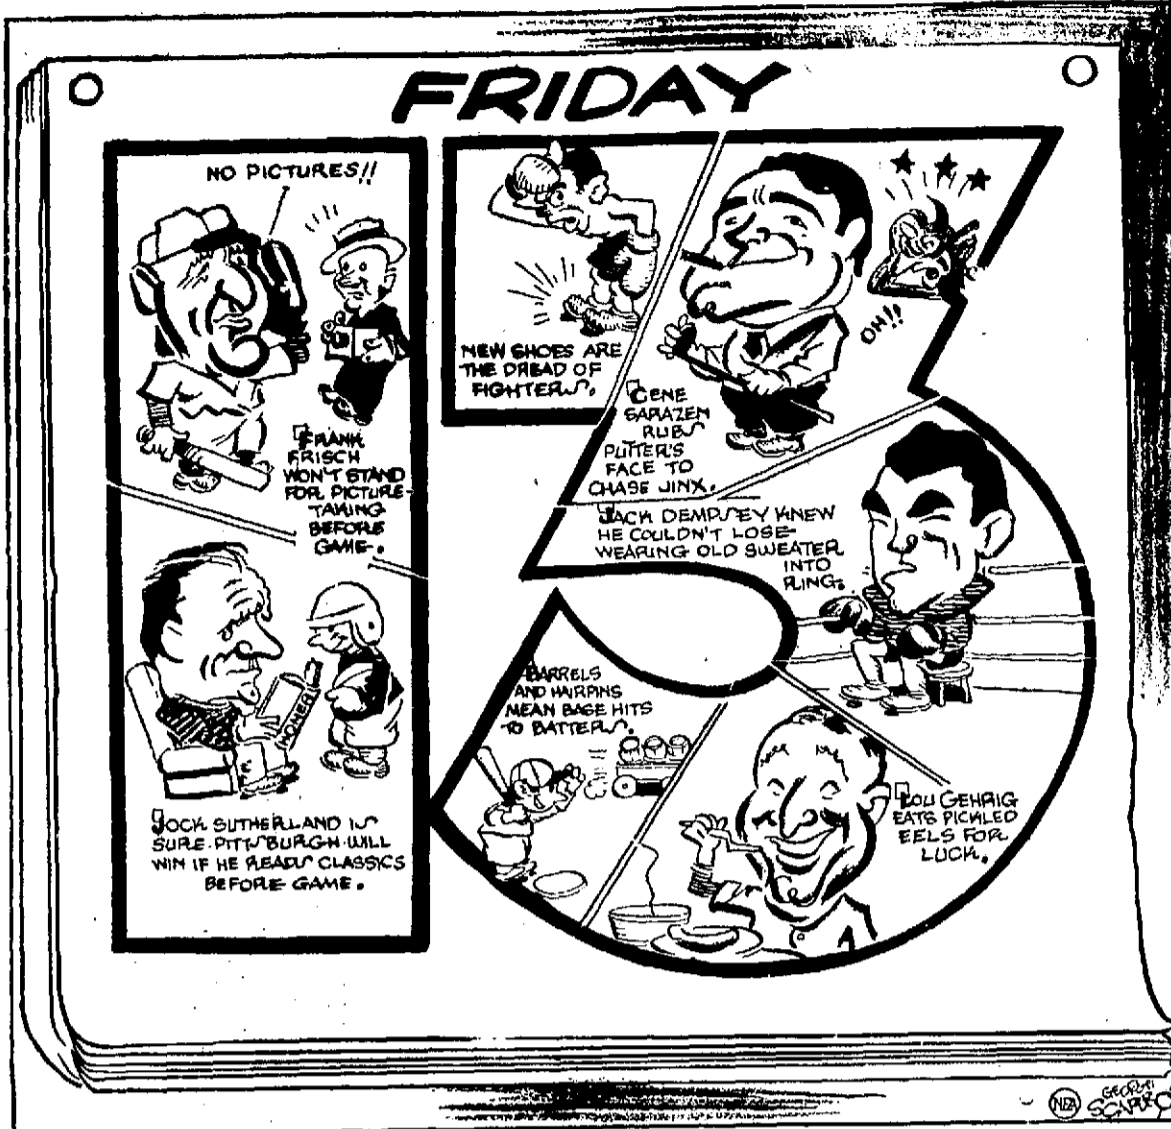

"I am not that kind of a sportsman," Cargile declared.

Out of six fights at the arena Thursday night, five resulted in knockouts. Starting with the opening preliminary, Claude Woods, negro, of Lost Prairie community who last week himself was carried from the ring, turned the tables on his opponent Thursday night to score a first-round K. O. over Fred Phillips of Hope.

Pinkie Carrigan of Hope put Lanny Jackson of Sheppard to sleep in the first of a scheduled four-round battle. It was the second knockout for Carrigan in the past two weeks.

W. L. McCoy went out at the count of ten in a scheduled three-round fight with Odell Griffiths. The bout lasted only one round. Both were from the Alton camp.

Hugh Carson of Hope scored a technical knockout over Jessie Grice of the Alton camp when the latter told the referee he "had enough" in the second of a scheduled three-round fight.

Good Luck Charms of Athletes Will Be Put to Test Today—Friday, 13th

Sport Figures Are Most Superstitious as They Try to Woo Lady Luck and Shoo Joe Jinx—Many Superstitious About Their Food, Clothing

By RICHARD MCCANN
NEA Service Sports Writer

Strong men shudder and weep today. 'Tis Friday the 13th—a day of horrors for the strong young men and old of the athletic world.

Athletes, you know, are the most superstitious of all citizens. They get more hopped up over hoxes and hoodoos than sailors or old ladies who believe in fortune tellers.

Fearlessly, fighters will march into a barrage of knuckles, and baseball players will face the smoking fire of speedball pitchers without flinching, and gridiron warriors will hurl themselves recklessly under thundering cleats. None of them fear physical hurts.

But when it comes to superstition, the boys have an unholy fear. Frantically, they woo Lady Luck; frenziedly they shoo Joe Jinx.

Ball players, for instance, think they can break up batting slumps by wearing the bats in front of the dugout, fighters, precisely swoon at the thought of wearing new ring shoes, and the American Automobile Association takes official notice of Joe Jinx by refusing to allow a driver to race in a car numbered 13.

Hairpins and Baby Shoes
The boys are liable to be superstitious about most anything—food, clothes, the side of the street they walk on—anything.

Walter Hagen likes red-headed caddies, Peter DePaulo carries a pair of his baby's shoes in the cockpit of his airplane, Gene Sarazen caresses the handle of his putter, and Freddie Miller plays rummy in the dressing room before a fight.

Carl Hubbell always lays his glove face up along the foul line when he's pitching, and Buck Newsom thinks that you've got to lay the glove face down to make a bad luck serum.

Bobby Grayson always rubbed a negro's head before each football game—once footing a $12 cab bill to get to the right fellow, a doorman at the Roosevelt Hotel in Los Angeles. And Jack Sutherland knows that his Pittsburgh team will win if he reads a few lines from the classics on the morning of a big game.

Buddy Myer thinks that four hairpins he picked up on the way to the ball park on the last day of the 1934 season enabled him to get those four hits which beat out Joe Vosmik for the American League batting championship.

And Lou Gehrig, they say, thinks that a plate of pickled eels will help him squirm out of a batting slump. However, under no circumstances will Lulu Lou eat eels for breakfast. You know, of course, what Lulu eats for breakfast—even if he himself doesn't know.

The Rap and Not the Wrap
Max Baer believed that his bright robe had something to do with him knocking out poor Primo Carnera. It was the robe he wore in the moving picture in which, as Steve Morgan, he whipped Primo. Of course, it goes without saying that it was the rap and not the wrap that beat the Alp.

Members of the U. S. international rifle teams are sure of winning when the captain is carrying on a "whittling stick" which, when it isn't on duty, rests in velvet in the custody of the National Rifle Association in Washington. It started out as a tent peg and is now down to the size of a pencil.

It's an unwritten rule in baseball that you are never to mention the fact that a pitcher is on his way to a no-hitter. Van Lingle Mungo goes this one better—he flies into a rage if anyone utter the score or inning while he is working.

Of course, being with the Dodgers,

Mungo doesn't fear many violations of his law. Most of those Dodgers, you know, don't know what the score is.

The Dazzler's Shirt
Ball players insist on wearing the same uniforms—no matter how dirty they get—if they are in a winning streak. Jim Bottomley wears the same undershirt for weeks at a time when he is banging the ball good. And Heinie Manush once wore a pair of socks so long that they could stand up.

There was nothing superstitious, however, about Dazzy Vance wearing a tattered old sweatshirt back in 1923. Folks at first thought Dazzy was sentimental about it, but the batters found that the torn right sleeve fluttered in the breeze just as Dazzy was about to let fly with the ball and this was most disconcerting. They made the umpires change Dazzy's shirt.

The 1914 Boston Braves, baseball's Miracle Team, was the most superstitious of all clubs. Manager George Stallings liked to go crazy remembering all the little talismans he was supposed to carry, all the ceremonials he had to do, and all the things he was to avoid saying.

George especially feared sparrows. They say that it was Johnny McGraw who scattered cornmeal all around the Braves' dugout one day to bring all the sparrows swooping down from Coogan's Bluff to feast before Stallings' eyes.

Silly, isn't it, being so superstitious... but, hey there, watch where you're going. Don't walk under that ladder, you crazy fool—don't you know it's bad luck today of all days?

Whoooping Good Time
AMARILLO, Texas. — (AP) — Edna Blanchard, six, wanted a big birthday party but an objection was raised—she and "Torney," her little brother, had whooping cough.

The Blanchards took a census of the neighborhood and solved the problem when they found seven other children suffering from the same trouble.

LeBrun Proves His Democracy

Travelers Win 2 From Nashville
Little Rock Now Leads League by 12 Full Games

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Arkansas's baseball avalanche, officially known as the Little Rock Travelers, beat the Nashville Vols badly in a double-header here Thursday night, 5 to 4 and 5 to 1, that the Nashville players were fighting among themselves before the end of the second game. The second game was called at the end of the fifth inning because of the Southern Association midnight rule.

The rumptus in the Nashville dugout occurred during the home half of the fifth inning. Just what started the free-for-all isn't known. The crowd barged down on the field and it was necessary to call the police to chase the customers back in the stands. Peace finally was restored and the Travelers continued beating the Vols on the diamond.

The double victory, clinching the series for Little Rock, knocked the Vols into third place. They were supplanted by the Memphis Chicks. The Travelers now lead the second place Chicks by 12 full games.

Doc Prothro used four pitchers in winning the first game that went 10 innings. Jennings Poindexter started and was followed by Kola Sharpe, Lee Rogers and Bob Porter. Porter's single in the 10th drove in Al Niemiec with the winning run. Bob was credited with the victory, his 10th of the season.

Little Rock sewed up the second game by scoring four runs off Hank Winston in the first inning. Bill Crouch finished for the Vols.

Dick Midkiff coasted to victory in the second, yielding six hits in the five innings. Dick was tight in the clinches. It was Midkiff's 12th win of the year. The Travelers and the Vols complete the series in a single game Friday night.

Schoolboy Is Home for Arm Treatment

Detroit Pitching Ace to Be Examined by Little Rock Specialist

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. —(AP)—Lynwood "Schoolboy" Rowe, Detroit Tiger pitcher whose right arm "went dead" this spring, came home to Arkansas Thursday for treatment.

Manager Mickey Cochrane of the Tigers placed him under the care of Dr. F. Walter Carruthers, Little Rock bone specialist. Dr. Carruthers declined comment after a preliminary examination of the Schoolboy's now famous ailing arm.

"I have no idea, nor anyone else it seems, what's wrong with me," Rowe said. "It's an acute pain that bobs up under my right shoulder muscle ever time I try to let one go like I used to. I tell you it's got me screwy."

Rowe, a resident of El Dorado, Ark., was examined by specialists at Detroit, and Miami, Fla., before coming here. The ace of the Tiger club for the past four years, he proved ineffective in several starts this season and was placed on the retired list. In 1934 he won 15 consecutive games to tie the American League record.
